第四問 次の英文は、高校生のキャリア (Carrie)、彩 (Aya)、和也 (Kazuya)、ハッサン (Hassan) が、コンビニエンスストアの24時間営業 (24-hour operations) について、英語の授業で自分の意見を述べたときのものです。これらの英文を読んで、あとの1~4の問いに答えなさい。

Carrie

My country has 24-hour convenience stores in my country. When I came to Japan, I found the streets at night looked different from those in my country. The light from the convenience stores is bright, so people can see the streets well and feel safe even in the night. I think this is another good point about keeping stores open during the night. However, it also means a lot of electricity is used. If more electricity is used, more CO₂ is produced. So I don't agree with 24-hour operations. I know they're useful, but the future of the earth is more important.

Aya

Like Carrie, many people say that convenience stores are good. I have two reasons. First, working during the night is very hard for the store staff. To keep stores open for 24 hours, someone has to work there late at night. Second, it's difficult for store owners to find people who want to work during the night. Why don't you think about 24-hour operations from the viewpoints of people who work in such jobs?

Kazuya

Aya said that running 24-hour operations is difficult for stores. However, 24-hour convenience stores are necessary for people who can only work at night. For example, college students usually can't work during the day. Such people can work at convenience stores during the night. Also, 24-hour convenience stores can help us when a disaster happens. When trains stop because of a disaster and people have to walk home, they can visit a convenience store to get water or use a restroom. We don't know when and where a disaster will happen, so we need such places.

Hassan

Like Carrie's country, there aren't any 24-hour convenience stores in my country. When I came to Japan, I found the streets at night looked different from those in my country. The light from the convenience stores is bright, so people can see the streets well and feel safe even in the night. I think this is another good point about keeping stores open during the night. However, it also means a lot of electricity is used. If more electricity is used, more CO₂ is produced. So I don't agree with 24-hour operations. I know they're useful, but the future of the earth is more important.
